Festive But Fire-Safe Is Rule For Home's Holiday Decoration

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Before you deck out your home for Christmas, check your decoration plan to make sure they will be as safe as they are festive.

Highly flammable Christmas greens and decorations introduce extra fire hazards into a home during the holidays. To minimize these hazards, engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters have formulated a few simple precautionary rules for the decorators to follow:

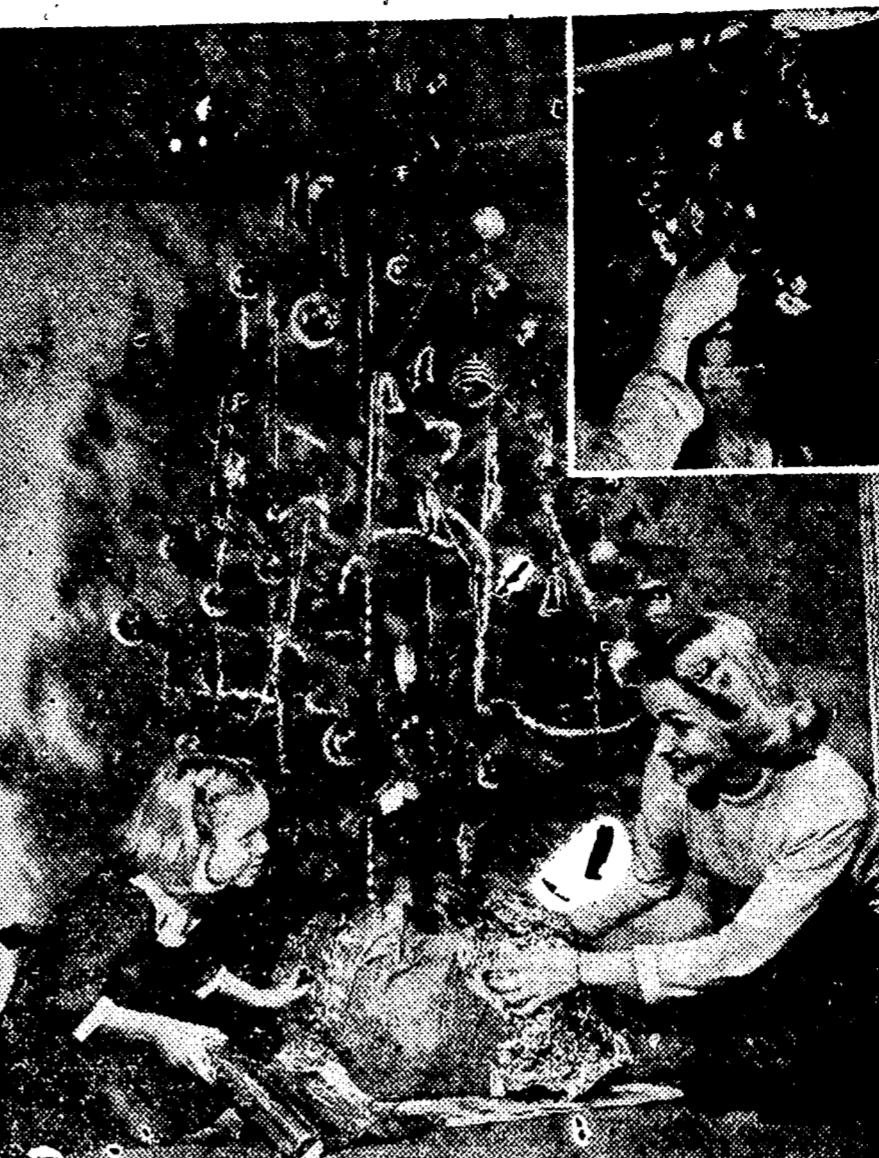

No. 1 warning is: Don't install your Christmas tree in front of the fireplace. A safe place for a tree, engineers caution, is a corner away from a fireplace and out of range of flying sparks. Another warning is not to use cotton or paper to decorate a tree. An equally decorative wrapping recommended for the base of a tree is non-flammable aluminum foil.

Because cut trees dry out rapidly after they are set up in a heated room, you are advised to keep your tree outdoors until a few days before Christmas. Another suggestion from engineers is to use a live tree which is packed in dirt and which will stay fresh throughout the holidays. After decorations are taken down, a live tree can be planted outdoors.

If you plan to hang wreaths in windows, eliminate any plans for using lighted candles nearby. If you wish, you can illuminate a wreath with an electric bulb but the bulb should be placed so that it is at least six inches from curtains or other inflammable materials.

If hanging stockings await Santa's visit, attach these to the top ledge of the mantel. This is to keep them out of the fire which should be protected with a metal screen.

Before you string up Christmas lights, check all wiring for signs of fraying which will need to be repaired. Don't try to plug four or

To minimize the holiday fire-hazards, this young housewife takes simple precautions with decorations. After tree is installed—and the trunk should be placed in water in a bucket, says the engineer—check it occasionally for signs of dryness. If needles become brown or start to fall before the tree can be discarded, change the location of the lights. Fire engineers say lights should not be left burning for longer than a half hour at a time.

If you were a native of Malaita in the Solomons you would carry your "savings" in a "dilly bag" hung under your arm. Your "wealth" would consist of strings of dog teeth, and betel nuts.

Betel nuts are about the size and color of small limes, and though they stain the teeth bright red, they are divided into small bits and held in the front of the mouth. The slow trickle of betel juice acts as a stimulant.

Your savings in Malaita would steadily get smaller . . . but here in Jacksonville they constantly grow. Your Jacksonville Savings & Loan Association pays you a profit on your savings, and you can add to them as you please. Stop in and let us explain.

THE STORY: Durand discovers that Bonny has received a letter addressed to Mabel Greene. She denies it. He is certain she has burst the letter and later he finds a charred edge bearing the signature, "Milly."

XXXV

NOTHING more, then, for five days. No more visits to the post office. No more letters sent, no more letters received. Whatever had been said was said, and only the inside of a fireplace knew what that had been.

For five days after that she did not even go out; she took no more walks. She loitered about the rooms, noncommunicative, self-assured. As if waiting for something. As if waiting for an appointed length of time to pass. Five days to pass.

Then on the fifth day, suddenly, without a word, the door of her room opened after long closure and he beheld her coming down the stairs arrayed for excursion. She was carefully dressed, far more carefully, far more exquisitely, than he had seen her for a long time past. She had taken a hot curling iron to her hair; ripples of artifice infested it. Her lips were frankly red; not merely covertly so. Her floral essence was strong to the point of headiness.

She was going out. She made that plain, over and above his own powers of observation. As if she wanted no mistake about it, no hindrance. "I'm going out," she said. "I'll be back soon."

He did not ask her where. That was about three in the afternoon.

At five she was not back yet. At six. At seven.

It was dark, and he lit the lamps, and they burned their way toward eight. She wasn't back yet.

ON toward nine there was a sound at the door. Not so much an opening of it, as a fumbling

She took off her hat. Regarded it intently, and unfavorably.

Then unexpectedly, she cast it from her, so that it fell to the floor a considerable distance across the room from her.

He made no move to get it. It was her hat, after all. He merely looked after it, to where it had fallen. "I thought you liked it. I thought it was your fondest rage."

"Hoch," she said with throaty disgust. "In New York they're wearing bigger ones this season. These little things are out."

She was half in, half out, and stopping there, her back sideways against the frame. Apparently resting.

"Are you ill, Bonny?" he asked gravely, advancing toward her.

She laughed. A surreptitious, chuckling little sound, exchanged between herself and some alter ego, that excluded him.

"I knew you were going to ask me that."

He had come close to her now. The floral essence had changed, as if from long exposure; fermented; there was an alcohol base to it now.

"No, I'm not ill," she said defiantly.

"Come away from the door. Shall I help you?"

She brushed his offered arm away from her, advanced past him without it. There was a stiffness to her gait.

"I'm not drunk, either," she said suddenly.

He closed the door, first looking out. There was no one out there.

"I didn't say you were."

"No, but that's what you're thinking."

He didn't answer. He went on into the sitting room.

When he entered it in turn, she was seated in the overstuffed chair, her head back a little, resting.

He stood and watched her for a moment.

"You're late," he said at last.

"I know I'm late. You don't have to tell me that. Why don't you ask me where I've been?"

"Would you tell me?" he retorted.

"Would you believe me?" she flung back at him.

incompletion of the matter of opening it.

He went out into the hall at last to see. To see why she did not finish coming in, for he knew already it was she.

She was half in, half out, and stopping there, her back sideways against the frame. Apparently resting.

"Are you ill, Bonny?" he asked gravely, advancing toward her.

Oakford Man Wed

In Church Rites

Chandlerville—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taapkin have announced the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Harry H. Williams, son of Mrs. Annie Williams of Oakford.

The wedding took place Nov. 21 at the Methodist church in Oakford, with the Rev. Keith Loveless receiving the vows in a double-ring service.

Attending the couple were Miss Jean Hitchcock and Carl Williams, brother of the bridegroom, Sandra Kay Taapkin, the bride's niece, and George C. Williams, the groom's nephew, who were ring bearers.

A reception, given by the bride's sister, followed the ceremony. The couple are residing in Oakford.

WHO told you that? he said to her in bitter silence. Who told you that you're wasting yourself, buried down here, away from the big towns you used to know? He could hear the very words, almost as though he had been there when they were spoken.

The flame of an old love kindled, with alcohol for fuel; the renewal of old ties, the whispers and the sniggered laughter—the reminiscences shared together. He could see it all, he was all but there, looking over their shoulders.

There must have been a letter North, and though he'd never seen it, he could guess what rancorous summons it contained: "Come get me; I can stand no more of this; take me out of it." And then, five days ago, the answer; the mysterious letter to "Mabel Greene."

She needn't go to the post office any more, stealthily to appropriate them. There would be no more sent. The sender was here with her now, right in the same town.

Mrs. Ethel Spicer has returned to her home from Lindale, Georgia, where she visited with her son Robert.

Miss Geraldine Staley, R.N. has returned to her duties at the Hinds Hospital, Chicago, after a visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. Betty Staley.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Schwartz visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blair of Waverly.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pritch of Roodhouse were the Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Stella Copley.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kendall and daughter from Pleasant Plains spent Saturday evening and Sunday with friends and relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brown were the weekend visitors of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Brown of Macomb.

Cubs, Pirates Share In Player Swapping

Minneapolis, Dec. 8.—(P)—Pittsburgh swapped Third Baseman Al Gionfriddo and a reported $100,000 with Indianapolis in 1948, McLish won 12 and lost nine for a pennant winner. He had a 4.13 earned run average and walked only 57 men in 172 innings. At one time Branch Rickey was very high on McLish, a 23-year-old Oklahoma boy who appeared in 23 games for the Dodgers during the war years of 1943.

Meyer was tickled to get McCullough to fill out his catching department. Clyde Klutzel and Ed Fitzgeral did most of the work last season. Grimm's first reaction to the trade was to announce that Jafko will return to centerfield next season with Gustine taking over at third.

On their 1948 performances, Gustine is the better buy. He hit .268 in 131 games while McCullough batted only .212 in 68 games. Gustine, always a great spring hitter, was up among the leaders in May and June but faded with the hot weather. McCullough was No. 2 behind Bob Scheffing most of the way and even took a seat behind rookie Rube Walker in the Cubs' youth experiment.

Gustine, a 28-year-old Pirate regular and McCullough, who is 31, are the two established major leaguers in the deal. It was a "natural" for Pittsburgh badly needed a first string catcher with extra base power and Chicago was so desperate for infield help that Outfielder Andy Parko was drafted to play third for the 1948 cellar team.

Off their 1948 performances, Gustine is the better buy. He hit .268 in 131 games while McCullough batted only .212 in 68 games. Gustine, always a great spring hitter, was up among the leaders in May and June but faded with the hot weather. McCullough was No. 2 behind Bob Scheffing most of the way and even took a seat behind rookie Rube Walker in the Cubs' youth experiment.

Playing under Manager Bill Meyer, who was his boss in the minors years ago, McCullough may be just what the doctor ordered for Pittsburgh. Despite his poor 1948 season he was picked by Leo Durocher for the National League All-Star team in July.

A change of scenery may help Gustine who underwent an operation a year ago. During the off-season he coaches college basketball at Waynesburg, Pa.

Actually the two pitchers may be the key to the success of the trade. Chambers, a 29-year-old rookie southpaw, won only two and lost nine for Chicago last summer. However, he was a 24-game winner for Los Angeles in 1947 when he had a better record than Bob Chesnes who did so well for the Pirates last summer.

McLish is a former Brooklyn Dodger farmhand who went to Pittsburgh in the big trade involving Kirby Higbe in May of 1947. Higbe, Dixie Howell, Gene Mauch and Mc-

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Rain, snow and colder weather hit wide sections of the country today.

A storm moving inland over the Pacific northwest into Wyoming brought rain along the coast and snow over much of the northwestern quarter of the country.

Light snow fell over parts of the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. More snow and colder weather was forecast for tonight and tomorrow as the Pacific storm moved eastward out of Wyoming.
